

When you're going through life's quiet journey and feeling like you're in this lonely race thank God that there's no better place to share this unexpected chase called Stephy's Place.

When you think you're alone and no one understands your thoughts and deepest fears I've found this wonderful way to share your tears embark and embrace at Stephy's Place.

When you think no one understands nor cares about your feelings or that life has no real meaning there's someone that will lend a hand at this glorious place called Stephy's Place.

You'll meet many great people who will share your thoughts and displaced fears But as you slowly start to face them it will become clear that you're not alone these days because of the faces
at Stephy's Place.

I began this journey one fine day not knowing what to expect was clear eventually as I made my way in my heart and soul it would appear that the only path I need to take is the one that leads me to Stephy's Place.
